

Online course design

with Gavin Dudeney - The Consultants-E

Friday 3rd February, Language Studies International, 13 Lyndhurst Terrace,
London NW3 5QA

Introduction

Online and blended learning are increasingly playing a part in some teachers' lives as budget and timetable cuts, as well as the pressures of modern life, cut into face-to-face teaching and training. In this session we will review what makes a good online course, what makes a good online teacher and - most importantly - how to guarantee quality in these new media.

Session outline

The session starts with a theoretical overview of online course design and teaching before moving into the more practical side of course and task design and examining the skill set of the online tutor. We will examine sample courses and review the principles involved in moving face-to-face tuition to the online or blended medium.

Timetable

Registration	10.00
Start Time	10.30
Approximate End Time	16.30
Lunch and refreshments provided

Session outcome

By the end of this session participants will have the skills to design, develop and teach in online contexts.

Trainer profile

Gavin Dudeney is Director of Technology at The Consultants-E and Chair of the IATEFL Electronic Committee (EiCom). He has worked in the field of educational technologies for nearly twenty years. Author of The Internet & The Language Classroom (CUP 2000, 2007) and co-author (with Nicky Hockly) of How to Teach English with Technology (Longman 2007) he is currently working on a new book on digital literacies (with Nicky Hockly and Dr. Mark Pegrum). Gavin's award-winning company specialises in teacher training and development and the application of technologies in the education sector.

Contact:

Professional Services Manager: Tom Weatherley, English UK, 219 St John Street, London, EC1V 4LY. Tel: 020 7608 7960, Fax: 020 7608 7961 e:training@englishuk.com

www.englishuk.com/training