English Profile is a community programme – the stronger the global network behind it, the better it will be.

We're looking for teachers to contribute examples of real student language: essays, coursework and spoken data, collected in real or virtual classrooms or completed as students' homework. This data will allow researchers to track the development of learners' progress in English. In return we're offering you:

- Access to an online, searchable database of your students' language which you can use to better understand their needs and develop new teaching materials.
- Free access to the English Vocabulary Profile – an invaluable resource for teachers.
- Free tickets to English Profile workshops, including training relevant to teachers, such as how to rate your students' work by CEF level.
- Free eBooks on the CEF and subscription to the new English Profile Journal.
- Certificate of participation and acknowledgement on the English Profile website.
- Invitations to English Profile research seminars and other English Profile events.

If you'd like to get involved, visit our website at www.englishprofile.org to find out how today.

“ This project brings to the description of learner levels insights gained through new technology, as well as the combined wealth of dozens of practitioners from all over the world. It is truly innovative and radical in its approach. ”

Professor Michael McCarthy,
University of Nottingham

“ I can see some ground-breaking benefits for language teaching... study of the problems of specific learners will allow courses to be targeted to learners from particular linguistic backgrounds in a way that has never been possible before. ”

Professor John Hawkins,

EnglishProfile

Setting professional standards for English language learning worldwide

English Profile is a ground-breaking and innovative programme which is shaping the future of English language learning, teaching and assessment worldwide.

Endorsed by the Council of Europe, English Profile will provide a unique benchmark for progress in English by clearly describing the language that learners need at each level of the Common European Framework (CEF).

The CEF is already widely used around the world to assess language ability. However, because it is 'language neutral' it needs to be interpreted appropriately for each language. English Profile will make the CEF even more relevant to English language teachers by showing the specific vocabulary, grammar and functional language that students can be expected to master at each level in English.

By making the CEF more accessible in this way, English Profile will provide unparalleled support for the development of curricula and teaching materials and in assessing students' language proficiency.

The English Vocabulary Profile is an invaluable new reference source for teachers, materials writers, test developers and anyone involved in syllabus design.

The Vocabulary Profile will provide a fully-searchable listing of words and phrases in English at each level of the CEF, starting with levels A1-B2. Based on extensive analysis of word frequency and real learner language use, they will offer the most reliable information available at both word and sense level.

- Available in British and American English.
- Fully searchable within a single CEF level or across levels.
- Audio pronunciation for every entry.
- Fully searchable by part of speech, grammar, usage, prefix or suffix and topic.
