

To be or not to be...

Saturday 23 April is a special day for language lovers. It's the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's death, and also UN English Language Day.

So we've organised a competition for member centres to celebrate either (or both) of these events with your students, in any way you like, and attempt to get coverage in your local paper or radio station.

Entries must include:

- a press release
- a photograph
- any press or radio coverage
- a short (one minute maximum) video clip from your campaign.

The closing date for entries is 10 May, and winners will be announced at English UK's AGM on 19 May.

Please send entries to naadiya@englishuk.com, with the subject line "Competition".
