Why attend this training day?

The day provides practical teaching strategies for the teaching of advanced classes, with a focus on Cambridge main suite exam preparation classes. The presenters will demonstrate a series of ideas and approaches about how to get the most out of students at this level, how to motivate and inspire them, and how to teach the different parts of Cambridge exams in an interesting and engaging way. The focus will be on practical ideas that can be applied to CAE classes in particular, but also to advanced classes in general.

Please note – this day is best suited to experienced teachers looking for fresh ideas and approaches.

Learning outcomes

- Take away new ideas and approaches to refresh advanced classes
- Build confidence for taking on advanced classes
- Inspire and motivate your students
- Help students in CAE and other exam classes more effectively

About the trainers

Lewis Richards is a teacher-trainer based in Portsmouth. He has presented at over 30 conferences on ideas for teaching exams, including IATEFL and the English UK Teachers' Conference. He is the co-author of 'IELTS Advantage Writing Skills' (DELTA, 2011).
